

The Danish Institute at Athens is pleased to invite you to a concert of modern jazz with the acclaimed band All too Human

Tuesday 5 June at 19.30

'Less is more' is a well-known saying. It's an oxymoron because of its paradoxical nature. Paradoxes take us beyond ingrained patterns of perception, reasoning and action. This newly formed unit's music is simple without being simple. It sounds vaguely familiar and strange at the same time.

About the band's new album Vernacular Avant-Garde:

"... a haunting record. A kind of magic carried by a quartet at the top whose complementarity is incredible"

"These fluid variations cross the entire disc but are also found within the pieces themselves. The success of the album lies in these alternations and the ongoing dialogue between complexity and simplicity, known and unheard, ancient and contemporary"

"Peter Bruun offers a jubilant musical synthesis as it seems natural and accessible, making this disc a nugget to discover urgently"

All Too Human: Marc Ducret (F): guitar (6 og 12-stringed), Kasper Tranberg (DK): trompet and cornet, Simon Toldam (DK): moog, JUNO 60 and phillicoda, Peter Bruun (DK): drums and mikrokorg, composition
