”To the Victor goes the Palm”

- The International Successes of Danish Cinema

By Palle Schantz Lauridsen, University of Copenhagen

For the last 30 years several Danish directors and films have won both critical acclaim and a variety of awards abroad.

Tracing the international successes of Danish cinema from the beginning until today, the lecture focuses on more recent developments and asks how films from a small country have been able to hit international markets.

Key examples will be taken from films by Bille August, Gabriel Axel, Lars von Trier, Thomas Vinterberg, and Susanne Bier.
