”Textile Production in the Aegean Neolithic and Early Bronze Age”

Wednesday 30 April, 7 p.m.
at the Danish Institute

Textile production belonged to the major daily activities of ancient communities. Hardly any textiles are preserved from prehistoric Greece, but through other related data it is possible to detect and reconstruct some early techniques of fiber and fabric manufacture as well as textile patterning. By presenting a range of evidence, such as textile tools, clay imprints and by using iconographic evidence, textile production and its role in the Aegean Neolithic and Early Bronze Age society will be discussed.
